PARTY FREUD LIVING

Hello! How are you? We're gliding toward the weekend after a few days of managerial type work. Some weeks are less hectic than others and that's probably a blessing, of course. This past one has felt somewhat quiet and it's sort of highlighted how we may be a bit addicted to chaos. Funny how that works, when things slow down enough to give us a moment to breathe, it almost feels like we're forgetting something. But! The point of this newsletter is not to focus on chaos. It's quite simply to share what's making us laugh, what we're up to, and also provide some useful and fun tips for maintaining our mental health while also doing a little partying. (Often in a sober way. 🍷) So let's stick to the plan and forge onward to the links together! We hope you enjoy the links and also your weekend ahead...

FUNNY FINDS

- Locked out? Perhaps trying some gentle words may be worth a shot.
- Hearing silly yet wise kids talking about crushes and the burden of love.
- A campaign t-shirt purchase forces one candidate to rethink running.

NEW THINGS TO TRY

- Looking for another reason to sleep in? Turns out faking being a morning person is scientifically ill advised.
- Watching other people clean rugs for a little ASMR medicine.
- This cinnamon and orange spiced mocktail looks delectable.

SHOP ME, MAYBE

- How pretty would this whipped shea butter look on a bathroom shelf?

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

- "When we liberate ourselves from the expectation that we must have an things figured out, we enter a sanctuary of empathy."
— Sonya Renee Taylor in The Body Is Not an Apology: The Power of Radical Self-Love
